Hemarks of Hou. George R. Latham of the Second (W. Va.) District, delivered in Congress on Saturday, March Saturday Night Last.—The Preamble 10th, on the Bingham Amendment.

Mr. Latham obtained leave to printe following remarks: Mr. Speaker Mr. Latham obtained leave to print the following remarks: Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose this bill, and in doing so I shall detain the House but a short time. Some legislation by Congress may become necessary under the second section of the amendment to the Constitution abolishing slavery; but in my opinion the right of congressional interference attaches only by virtue of local obstruction to the great amendment. But in my opinion this bill goes far beyond anything contemplated or justified by this amendment.

The first section provides—

Are Attorneys Officers?

Decision of the Supreme Court—A Sharp Criticism.

Editors Intelligencer:
I have read with some interest in the Intelligencer of Appeals of the Supreme Court of Appeals of the State, rendered in what is known as the Faulkner case. I have read again the opinion of the supreme Court of Appeals of this State, rendered in what is known as the Faulkner case. I have read again the opinion of the Supreme Court of Appeals of this State, rendered in what is known as the Faulkner case. I have read again the opinion of the court which is criticised, as delivered by Judge Brown, and published in the Intelligencer.

The court seem to have labored mainly to establish two propositions, first, that an attorney-at-law is not an officer within the meaning of the said act of Nov. 18, 1853, and required to take the oath prescribed in said act, commonly called "the test oath for officers," and second, that any licensed attorney have been at a support the constitution of this State and the support the constitution of the United States, the Constitution of the United States, the Constitution of the United States, and then Judge Brown proceeds with his opinion ton the second proposition, and disposes of it thus:

"But it may be asked, if an attorney the practice, and then Judge Brown proceeds with his opinion ton the second proposition, and disposes of it thus:

"But it may be asked, if an attorney is required to take the oath prescribed by the the State. When the support the constitution of the States and of this State.

"It is answered that by the find frequency of the bull to an activation of the Constitution of the United States and the oath prescribed by the first section of chapter 13 of the code, Is separated to the constitution of the constitution of the United States and the constitution of this State."

The writer in your paper of the 7th Inst strangely fails to comment on this part of the opinion, but confines his criticism exclusively to that part of the opinion of the court which is intended to establish the proposition that an attorney-at-law is not an officer within the meaning of said act.

With your critic to what seems to me to be a remarkable inconsistency between the first proposition as established by the court and the second proposition as established by the court first establish the proposition that an attorney-at-law is not an officer within the meaning of the act of November 16, 1883, and then ask the question as above quoted, "Ifan attorney is not an officer elected or appendix and the control of the control of the control of the control of the act of November 16, 1883, and then ask the question as above quoted, "Ifan attorney is not an officer elected or appendix and the control of the contr

ney-at-law is not an officer within the meaning of the act of November 16, 1823, and then ask the question as above quoted, "If an attorney is not an officer elected or appointed within the meaning of said act, how is it he is required to take the oath to support the constitution of the United States and of this State," and answer the question by saying in substance that the act of June 26, 1863, prescribes that attorneys-at-law shall take the oath to support the constitution of the United States and the constitution of this State." All that the court says on this subject is quoted above, and the reader can see whether or not I give the substance correctly.

The only authority by which the court claims the power to administer the oath to support the constitution of the United States to attorneys-at-law, is the act of June 26, 1863.

The official record of the deaths by the cattle disease in England during January makes the number over 121,000, while very many go unrecorded. The disease has thus far nearly doubled its ravages every four weeks, and the utter extermination of the bovines in England is imminent, unless some remedy soon proves effectual.

The authorities at Cambridge university, England, have voted to reject the proposition of Mr. Henry Yates Thompson to establish a lectureship on American history, the lecturer to be selected by the faculty of Harvard college. England evidently does not care to be cured of her ignorance in regard to the United States.

The following satisfactory answer was given by a "dry Yankee" to a St. Johns merchant. As he chanced to be in a store in the above named city, the merchant, and others present, ascertaining that he was from St. Albans, began to question him as to public opinion on the Fenian movements, designs, etc.

Said the merchant: "What do the Fenians expect to do with Canada, should they take it?"

"Well!" said the Yankee, after a little
